2025 Boiler Controls & Water Treatment Trainings

Each course is approved and will provide participants with 3 Certified Educational Facilities Manager (CEFM) credits.

NJSIG's partner, Chubb Risk Engineering Services, will be offering Boiler Controls and Safety Devices trainings, along with Water Treatment trainings this year at no additional cost to NJSIG members. This invitation is extended to facilities management and maintenance personnel of school districts insured with NJSIG.

Attendees of the training will learn how controls and safety device's function, how they can be tested, and what are the common failure mechanisms. Each attendee will also have an opportunity to participate in an open discussion about industry standard preventative maintenance practices and learn how preventative maintenance can significantly reduce outages.

Meet the Chubb Risk Engineers who inspect your facilities and learn about key controls and safety devices, and industry standard preventative maintenance practices.

Mark your calendar for the training dates listed below! Additional details about each session, including times and registration links, will be shared as the dates approach.

A study by the organization, More in Common, shows that 80 percent of Americans believe “political correctness is a problem in our country.” Many people feel cynical about what they feel are the excesses of diversity culture. Yet bias incidents are on the rise in many communities, and talking about issues related to diversity is more important than ever. In this training, participants will explore current research on inclusive language and why it is an important part of dismantling bias. Through interactive exercises, participants will unpack current terminology related to diversity, equity, and inclusion, and discuss strategies for using the “language of diversity” in ways that promote understanding rather than division.
