Host: David Nash, Esq., Director of Legal Education and National Outreach, FEA

August 4 - Artificial Intelligence, Deepfakes, and the Law

Guest: Dr. Michael Gaskell, Principal, East Brunswick Public Schools

Explore the legal challenges and opportunities school districts face as AI continues to evolve. This episode covers:

- New federal & NJ laws on deepfake technology
- Civil and criminal penalties for misuse
- Tools for removing harmful content from social media
- Legal considerations for school AI policies
- A live demo of how AI can present complex info in engaging, interactive ways

August 11 - Addressing Gender Identity and Sexual Orientation in Schools after Mahmoud v. Taylor

Guests:

- Mx. Louis Noha Manziano, Supervisor of ELA & Social Studies, Grades 6-12, Metuchen School District
- Lori Burns, Ed.D., Director of Early Childhood P-3, Robbinsville School District

Following the U.S. Supreme Court's Mahmoud v. Taylor (June 27, 2025), this episode explores how the decision affects school district obligations around:

- Parental rights, religious expression, and opt-out requests (K-5)
- Compliance with NJ's Law Against Discrimination and Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights
- Inclusive curriculum and access to diverse materials
- Creating safe, affirming environments and addressing bias-related incidents

August 18 - Ongoing Legal Obligations to Support Multilingual Learners

Guest: JoAnne Negrin, Ed.D., COO, LLAMAME, LLC

This episode explores the legal responsibilities school districts have in supporting multilingual learners (MLs), including:

- State and federal requirements for research-based educational programs
- Obligations to communicate with families in their native language
- The importance of an "assets-based" approach to ML support
- The right to public education regardless of citizenship status
- Differences between Executive Orders, federal laws, and Constitutional mandates

August 25 - DEI, Public Schools, and the Law — What Has and Hasn't Changed

Guests:

- George Guy, Director of Elementary Education, Cherry Hill Public Schools
- Rebecca Gold, LEGAL ONE Consultant & former Assistant Superintendent for Human Resources

What are school districts legally required to do when it comes to Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion? In this episode, you'll learn:

- Long-standing federal and state legal obligations around DEI
- Responsibilities to support students, staff, and families equitably
- What's changed—and what hasn't—due to recent Executive Orders and federal guidance
- How to build safe, inclusive, and affirming school environments

September 1 - Current Requirements and the Future of Staff Evaluation in Schools

Guest: Karen Bingert, Executive Director, NJ Principals and Supervisors Association

As schools evolve, so must staff evaluation systems. In this episode, listeners will learn:

- Ongoing legal obligations for staff evaluation and progressive supervision
- Key changes taking effect in the 2025-26 school year
- Steps New Jersey is taking to reimagine evaluation practices
- Future possibilities for more meaningful and modern evaluation systems

September 8 - Evolving Legal Requirements on Student Transportation and the Law

Guest: Sandra Jacques, Esq., LL.M, Assistant Director of Legal Education, FEA

Transporting students safely is more complex than ever. This episode breaks down:

- Recent changes in New Jersey transportation law
- Key state and federal requirements schools must follow
- Parent rights at dismissal and student health/behavior considerations
- Legal obligations when working with private bus companies
- Solutions for the ongoing school bus driver shortage
